SIMCOE PLASTICS LTD ADDS DESKTOP INJECTION MOULDING MACHINE TO PRODUCT OFFERINGS

Simcoe Plastics is proud to announce the addition of moulding machine sales to its product portfolio, by adding the APSX-PIM desktop injection moulding machine (DTIMM).

Oro-Medonte, ON (February 8, 2017) – Continuing with Simcoe Plastics’ mission to be a preferred supplier to the plastics industry, it is with great excitement that we announce an agreement with APSX LLC of Cincinnati, Ohio, to market and sell their APSX-PIM desktop injection moulding machine (DTIMM). This marks the first time in Simcoe Plastics’ history that machinery will be part of their product offerings. Seeing DTIMM as a viable market niche, slotting perfectly between the one-off flexibility of 3D printing and the large volume production of typical full scale injection moulding, DTIMM affords low-cost prototyping, small volume runs of small parts and economic accessibility of mass production to low-volume applications.

With over 30 years of experience, “Simcoe Plastics Ltd continues to develop supply partnerships and sales agreements that bring exceptional value to our customers and customers-to-be”, offers President, Kurt Stahle. “Representing APSX LLC allows us to tap into a new segment of the plastics industry in Canada, while leveraging our knowledge and resin supply capabilities.” The firm reports a growing base of customers from product designers, molders and development partners throughout the Canadian marketplace.

APSX LLC of Cincinnati, OH is the creation of Burak Cevik and Kubi Kara (Partners owning the APSX WideBand brand of automotive aftermarket components). The APSX-PIM was the result of APSX WideBand’s own production requirements, so the proof of concept and business case is solid and proven.
